ORDER

1. The present complaint was taken up for hearing through virtual mode.

2. During the course of the hearing, it was brought to the notice of this office that the individuals against whom the allegations were made are no longer holding the positions in question. It was further submitted that the composition of the Association has since undergone change and new office bearers have been appointed.
3. It was also noted that this office does not have jurisdiction to examine the validity of the lease deed forming part of the subject matter of the complaint. Learned counsel Mr. Harish Chandrasekar, for the complainant, fairly conceded that, in view of the subsequent developments, the prayers raised in the complaint have become infructuous.
4. Accordingly, the complaint is disposed of as infructuous, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the allegations. It is clarified that liberty is available to the complainant to pursue remedies in accordance with law in respect of matters falling outside the jurisdiction of the Ombudsman.
